Let's show the world how it's done.

Now is the time. Let's show the world how a community can come together and drastically reduce its energy use.

The City of Boulder and its partners offer a number of programs that can help you make a difference right here, right now. Whether you are a resident, employer, employee or visitor to Boulder, you have a part in climate action. By looking at where we live, work, and play, how we get around, the stuff we buy, the energy we use and what we eat, all of us can help make our planet a healthier and more sustainable place.
